Have you been thinking...

- Why we need to talk about Pākehā specifically, and not just ‘all’ Tauiwi/Tāngata Tiriti?
- What particular responsibilities do Pākehā have? • What can Pākehā supporting tino rangatiratanga look like, at its best?
- What kinds of changes can we each be making to align Pākehā and Pākehā-dominated organisations/power-structures with Te Tiriti and tino rangatiratanga?
- How might Pākehā be about this mahi in a way that is in an equitable relationship with other Tauiwi/Tāngata Tiriti? • How can Pākehā best support the transformational Matike Mai vision?

Join the organisers as they host a conversation with Dr Veronica Tawhai (Ngāti Porou and Ngāti Uepohatu, member of the Matike Mai Aotearoa National Working Group and Associate Professor and Pūkenga Tiriti at Massey University) and Rebecca Sinclair (Pākehā, Co-Founder of The Pākehā Project and Associate Professor at Toi Rauwhārangi, College of Creative Arts, at Massey University Wellington), to discuss these and other important questions.

Following a break for refreshments, a second session will delve into experiences and real-world actions of those attempting to align with Te Tiriti/tino rangatiratanga and interculturalism/anti-racism amongst Tauiwi, giving inspiration for attendees to take back to their own organisations and contexts-of-power/change.

This event is aimed at people who have an existing understanding of Te Tiriti / He Whakaputanga, the depth of injustice against iwi Māori over generations and the ongoing damage of colonisation and Whiteness– and want to do something about it! While it will be particularly focussed on Tauiwi-Pākehā relationships to and potential actions in support of tino rangatiratanga and anti-racism, the organisers welcome Tāngata Whenua and people of all whakapapa to join.
